The voice of children is heard, seen, and experienced through their daily interactions and an ever-changing environment. When teachers use reflective practices they may tune in to "authentic learning" while "caring for the hearts and minds" of young learners.

The Institute promises to transform your teaching practices by enhancing your power to reflect, observe and document what children know.

"TRANSFORM" your practices with children by:*

Trusting the voices of children

Reflecting on the teacher within

Affirming harmony with nature

Nurturing creativity

Setting the stage for best practices

Focusing on standards and accountability

Observing purposefully to plan responsively

Relating with children and families in the spirit of community

Managing the environment with intentionality

Join us in this wonderful journey of promising practices!
